Help Is Available If You Need It.

We want to make sure everyone on our team is aware of a resource that exists specifically for people in our industry.

The Automotive Aftermarket Charitable Foundation (AACF) provides financial assistance to aftermarket workers and their families facing unexpected hardship. If you or someone in your household is dealing with a medical emergency, serious accident, natural disaster, or another crisis, you may qualify for help through AACF.

Do You Qualify?
To qualify, you must have been employed for at least one year with a single aftermarket industry employer or worked continuously in the aftermarket industry for the past three years and have no other means of support.

How to Get Help
If you think you or someone you know may qualify, the following resources are available:

- Inquire about general hardship aid: https://forms.gle/4J3DkR92CpaeKxfQ6
- Apply for natural disaster aid: https://forms.gle/BDdPVdQqyegU8aig6
- Read our FAQ's: https://www.aftermarketcharity.org/faqs

Even if you're not currently in need of support, we encourage you to save this information in case you ever need it or share it with someone who does.

If you have any questions about AACF or the application process, reach out to HR or contact AACF directly using the email below.
